YOU WANT THE BEST.

Manhood needs a herald, like the heralds of old, to proclaim so that all may hear, the vital importance of health. The average man of to-day thanks it beneath his dignity to bother about his health until it is gone. Even then he only takes measures to restore it in an indifferent, contemptuous sort of way.

He cannot learn too soon that health is the most important thing in life—in fact, is life. Without it the most brilliant man will be a failure, and the most robust man will rapidly become a physical wreck. The man who neglects the little headaches, the loss of appetite and sleep, nervousness, hot flushings, cold chills, heavy head, lax muscles, and the multitude of bad feelings that are the heralds of approaching sickness and disease, must pay a tremendous penalty. For men who suffer in this way there is no medicine equal to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It sharpens the appetite, corrects all disorders of the digestion, invigorates the liver, makes the assimilation of the food perfect, purifies the blood and enriches it with the life-giving elements that build new, healthy tissue. Thousands have told, over their own signatures, the stories of the wonders it has performed. Honest dealers will not use a substitute for the sake of a little extra profit.

Thomas Fletcher of Clifton Station, Fairfax Co., Va., writes: "I suffered terrible tortures for ten years with 'gastralgia' (pain in the stomach). I then took six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which completely cured me."

When the bowels are regular the body will feel good and the mind will be active. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. They never gripe. All good dealers sell them and have nothing else "just as good."

Any Time You Want at the Pole.

Those who are conversant with the use of globes know that all the meridians of longitude starting from the equator converge toward and meet at the pole. They know, too, that longitude signifies time, and that difference of longitude is difference in time. They know very well that when it is noon in London it is about 7 o'clock in the morning in Boston, and that when it is noon in San Francisco it is about a quarter past 3 in the afternoon in New York.

Now, as the meridian of London extends to the north pole, it necessarily assumes that when it is noon in the English capital it must also be noon at the north pole. In a similar manner when it is noon at Boston, or in San Francisco, or at Peking, or any other place situated in the northern hemisphere, it follows that it must also be noon at the pole, because all the meridians of those places unite at the north pole. Therefore it is noon all day long at the pole.

Thus there is an entire absence of time at the pole. But it would be just as correct to say that it is a place where there is a preponderance of time, for it is practically any time of day during the whole 24 hours, or indeed through the year. In fact, a resident at the north pole could make it any time of day he might choose to select, with the consciousness that it would be the right time.—Youth's Companion

A Woman's Whim.

She was a woman who made a practice of being always amiable to the clerks in the shops, and there was one dry goods shop where she had traded for many years, and the clerks were like old friends. But there were some business changes, and a new firm made offers to the clerks who had been so long with the old firm that the woman had patronized, and they, almost to a man and woman, left. The lifelong patron of the shop was much incensed at this. It was not fair or right, she said, and in fact almost dishonorable.

So one day when she made a first visit to the new shop one of the old clerks who knew her well stepped forward to speak to her after the old cordial fashion. But, no, this mild-mannered woman turned her head away with a cold stare and passed on without recognition. She could not be cordial to any one who had acted so dishonorably. No explanation is offered of why she herself was in the new shop. It may have been just out of curiosity. Of course one can shop where one pleases.—New York Times.

A Lucky Bit of Tin.

Telling of a narrow escape from death which he had recently experienced, a railroad switchman said: "I was leaning up against the end of that blue box car over there, thinking of what I was going to have for dinner, when I thought I saw a silver dollar lying in the street about ten feet away from me."

"I knew there was a shifter on the same track, but I thought it was down on the wharf at that time. I hadn't more than stepped away from the end of that car when the shifter bunted into it and drove it ahead about 20 feet. Say, suppose I hadn't seen that silver dollar and started for it. Where would I have been now? Yes, a man that is working around the cars has got to pay strict attention to business."

"Oh, I forgot to tell you that that silver dollar was only a round piece of tin, but it served its purpose just as well as the real thing could have done. I'm going to wear it on my watch chain for a charm. It ought to be better than a rabbit's foot."—Portland Express.

The Broker's Reply.

A youthful looking broker went into a Broadway store the other day to buy a new hat, and laid his old one on the counter while waiting for the clerk to wait upon him. He happened to turn around as a Quaker came in the garb unusual even in this cosmopolitan city, and smiled involuntarily at the odd sight. The Quaker took the broker for a salesman, and, taking off his broad hat, held it out to the young man, saying: "Hast thou a hat like this, my friend?"

"No," replied the broker, "and if I had I would not wear it." Then, noticing the look of surprise on the face of the grave old Quaker, he explained that he dealt in stocks, not in hats.—New York Tribune.

Disastrous Fortune Telling.

An extraordinary case of madness, in which all members of a family, consisting of father, mother and four children, were simultaneously afflicted, recently occurred in Belgium. A party of strolling gypsies, who undertook to tell the father's fortune by means of cards, declared that he would be killed while serving in the army, and this prediction so impressed him and his family that in the course of the same day they all developed signs of wavering reason and before long had to be put under restraint. The gypsies, who were the source of the trouble, were arrested by the German police when crossing the frontier from Belgium.

Sweet Fillings.

Tommy—I've got de toothache awfully.

Visitor—You should have the tooth filled, Tommy.

Tommy—I did have it filled. That's what makes it ache so.

Visitor—I never heard of such a thing. Did you have it filled with gold?

Tommy—No'm! Had it filled with gumdrops.—Chicago News

Looking to the Future.

"The widow seems to take great interest in old Goldilocks."

"She thinks that if she takes interest how she'll have the principal later."—Brooklyn Life.

He Raised a Storm.

A handsome young fellow stood at the glove counter of a large store the other day and fairly hypnotized the four girl attendants.

He had a word for one, a smile for another, a wink for a third and a pink for the fourth—by far the prettiest of the quartet.

The floral offering was too much for the pinkless three, and they all turned on the radiant recipient of the flower.

"Say, Nellie Norries, you're too fresh! Ain't you got a nerve! Flirt-log that way with a stranger!"

"Oh, go on!" laughed the shameless one. "Youse all jealous! Tain't my fault if he thinks me the prettiest."

The young man laughed gayly.

"That's so," he said. "And you are too."

He was a silly young man.

For the trio now attacked him with zealous bitterness.

"Say, mister, you'd better get your change and go before the floorwalker comes around. You'll get that poor girl discharged, and that'll be a nice thing, when her father drinks and her mother's in the hospital."

"Nellie" turned on them like a fury.

"Don't you tell no lies about me," she said fiercely, "or for two pins I'll sell what you said about the floorwalker. You talk to me all you like, young man."

But the young man had fled before the storm that he had so foolishly fomented.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

One Sat Still.

When Captain Cook's ship, the Endeavour, lay in Mercury Bay, New Zealand, in 1769, a brown boy of 8, who afterward became a chief and lived to a great age, went aboard of her. His name was Taniwha.

It was easy enough for the brown boys to pick out Kapene Kuku (Captain Cook) among the men on board, Taniwha said; he was the leader of the "Gobblins," a very great man. He walked the ship grave and dignified. He held up a nail, a priceless treasure, and, when Taniwha laughed, gave it to him. Then the boys knew that he was good as well as great. They were shocked that a grown up Maori stole a piece of calico.

"They paddled away," Taniwha continued. "The Gobblin went down into the hold of the ship, but soon came up with a walking stick in his hand and pointed it at the canoe. Thunder pealed and lightning flashed, but those in the canoe paddled on."

"Then they landed. Eight rose to leave the canoe, but the thief sat still with his dogskin mat and the Gobblin's garment under his feet. His companions called him, but he did not answer. One of them shook him, and the thief fell back into the hold of the canoe and blood was seen on his clothing and a hole in his back."—San Francisco Examiner.

Then Do Your Cussing.

If you feel like cussing the paper and editor, remember that he can't run it and make it better without financial support, and that he will appreciate it more and it will do you as little harm if you go over and pay up your subscription if you are a delinquent subscriber, or, if not, pay a subscription for your friend.—Lawrence Democrat.

FINED FOR WINNING A CASE.

It Was Not Considered Proper to Defend a Horse Thief.

"When I graduated from the law school," said the old lawyer, with a reminiscent smile, "I took Horace Greeley's advice and went west. I located in a little town that then was on the frontier and waited with the confidence of youth for clients."

"Before I had fairly opened my office I was retained to defend a man for stealing a horse. This elated me very much, for I was not aware at the time that the case had been refused by all the other lawyers in town, as defending a horse thief was not a thing to be desired if a man valued his life."

"The case came to trial before an old judge and a jury composed of bewhiskered ranchers. There was no doubt that the man was guilty, but he had a number of friends who were willing to swear to anything, and I thought it was my duty to make the best possible use of them. They were all willing to swear that the defendant was 40 miles away from the spot when the horse was stolen, and the prosecution was unable to break down their testimony. I saw that I was going to free my client, so it was with a satisfied air that I saw the jury leaving the room to prepare their verdict."

"They were back in five minutes, and the old judge asked them if they had succeeded in arriving at a verdict."

"We hey," answered the foreman, as he shifted the gun he carried on his hip. "We find the defendant not guilty and recommend the defendant's lawyer, owing to his youth an innocence, to the mercy of the court."

"While I was gasping for breath the judge fined me $500 and suspended sentence long enough for me to get out of town. It wasn't law, but I didn't stop to argue the matter."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

A GREAT WRESTLER.

His Encounter With the Czar and His Ignoble Reward.

One of the stories of Peter the Great which are current at the court of St. Petersburg is of the great czar's wrestling match with a young dragoon. Once in the imperial palace—so the story goes—Peter was at table with a great many princes and noblemen, and soldiers were posted within the hall. The czar was in a joyous mood, and, rising, called out to the company: "Listen, princes and boyars! Is there among you one who will wrestle with the czar?" There was no reply, and the czar repeated the challenge.

No prince or nobleman dared to wrestle with his sovereign. But at once a young dragoon stepped out from the ranks of the soldiers on guard. "Listen, Orthodox czar," he said. "I will wrestle with thee!" "Well, young dragoon," said Peter, "I will wrestle with thee, but on these conditions: If thou throwest me, I will pardon thee; but, if thou art thrown, thou shalt be beheaded. Wilt thou wrestle on those conditions?"

"I will, great czar," said the soldier. They closed, and presently the soldier with his left arm threw the czar and with his right he prevented him from falling to the ground. The sovereign was clearly beaten. The czar offered the soldier whatever reward he should claim, and he ignobly claimed the privilege of drinking free, as long as he lived, in all the inns belonging to the crown. What became of him history does not say.

B. SUBJECT TO EXAMINATION, a tailor made suit to your exact measure. You can examine and try it on at your own expense. If you like, we will send you a full set of our $15.00 suit and our $10.00 suit and our $7.50 and express charges less the $1.00 sent with order.
AT $15.00 we cut and make three suits to measure in competition with suits tailors get $20.00 for. They are all fine custom made-to-measure, but making over 1,000 suits daily menswear errors creep in and some misfit suits accumulate, and to keep our stock clean we shall close them out at ONE HALF PRICE and less than cost of cloth alone, a big loss to us.
These suits were made to measure at $15.00 to $18.00 from blue foreign and domestic all wool cassimeres, worsteds, meltons and chev's of cloths, in light, medium and dark shades, also plain effects, made in very latest style, with fine linings and trimmings, coats satin piped, fancy arm-shields of silk and linen sewing, best of everything. We will select the exact kind and style of suit you want, and will tell it to your exact measure and when you get it if you do not say it is to every purpose exact, the same as if originally made to your measure by a $15.00 to $18.00 suit, or by your own tailor at $25.00 to $30.00. Return it at our expense, unless you delay. Write for five cloth samples of men's tailoring.

THE RIGHT OF DISCUSSION.

As the time for Congress to convene approaches the Philippine question is taking form. The Democrats are arranging themselves, as many suppose, in opposition to the United States retaining the Philippines in any form. The Republicans have no declared policy, and appear to be waiting for something to turn up that will be favorable to the party in the next campaign.

The Democrats have about concluded that the Republican party will be in favor of retaining the Philippines in some form that will be obnoxious to the Declaration of Independence, and, having so concluded, they are drawing upon the declaration of American rights to inspire opposition to the presumed policy of the Republican party.

The question of retention by the United States of the islands is open for discussion by all men and by both parties, in any way that they may deem proper to discuss the question involved in the main question, without doing violence in any particular to party, as the matter is now before the country. Whatever is said is nothing more than an opinion of an individual citizen. The JOURNAL has declared its opinion in a few particulars on the question of expansion, and will continue to do so, in obedience to the principle that an opinion declared may be worth something, while an opinion not declared is not worth anything. We fully appreciate that opinions expressed on questions about which people differ are not always well received by those whose views may be in conflict with the opinions declared.

While the question is open we will exercise the right of an American citizen and the right of a Democrat to discuss the questions included in the controversy that is beginning to take shape on the Democratic side, until some authoritative policy is declared by the Democratic party. We concede the right of all persons to oppose our opinions; no right is claimed by us that is not fully and freely extended to others. By exercising the right of discussion of an open question that is subject to discussion, the JOURNAL has without a doubt placed itself in conflict with the opinions of Democrats who are honest and earnest in their convictions on the subject of expansion, whose opinions have been largely influenced by that love of country which will ever distinguish a patriot.

The JOURNAL, in the discussion of the question including expansion, has taken an affirmative view of the question from a war position, and by taking that view it is not in opposition to the more advanced view taken by men prominent in the councils of the Democratic party. There is no settled policy upon the question, and there are no lines marking the future action of the party that are at this time binding upon a Democrat in a party sense. Democrats have been and are engaged in forming opinions upon the question. These opinions when formed will be in the future declared in the form of a plank in the national platform of the party, and, so far as it is learned, the united opinion will be declared to favor a prosecution of the war to a successful conclusion.

The party will be committed to self government by the people of the islands and to a maintenance of the sovereign authority of the United States over the islands until a government in all of its parts is in full operation in a stable form; and respecting the matter of picking up our duds and getting out of the country when the United States is satisfied that all things are right and as they should be, there does not seem to be any well defined opinion, and there will not be until Uncle Sam has concluded to stay away from home, for a time at least, to watch over the good work at the Philippines.

The JOURNAL is in full accord with all that seems, at this writing, will be the policy of the party. The United States has no right to be in the Philippines making war unless we are there through the right of sovereignty. If we are not occupying the country because of our sovereign right to do so, we are there to conquer, and if we are there for that purpose, the JOURNAL will say now and for ever, hands off. The United States of America cannot afford to be in that position.

One of the chief questions to be disposed of will arise upon the relation the United States should assume to the islands, consistent with our theory of government and our innate sense of liberty. We take a business view of the whole matter that will have to be disposed of, which is the only practical view that can be taken of the situation. The United States will have to dispose of the Philippine matter in a way that will be for the best interests of all concerned, keeping ever while so doing under keen vision, written in large letters, the right of man to liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

There are people who entertain a feeling that something English will get into the business that will spoil it for American use, which is imaginary. Uncle Sam has the matter in hand and always has been able to attend to the English part of any business we have had with England; and do not think for a moment he has lost his cunning in business matters by going to the Philippines.

The Next Play.

A coming attraction is Hoyt's best and brightest comedy "A Milk White Flag." The ideas embodied in this merry skit are worth thinking about. It is not a mere hodge podge of non-

Scene strung together for the benefit of the variety artist, as so many farce comedies are, but a gem of real literary charm evolved from the strong imagination of the writer.

Spain's Greatest Need.

Mr. R. P. Oliver, of Barcelona, Spain, spends his winters at Alton, S. C. Weak nerves had caused severe pains in the back of his head. On using Electric Bitters, America's greatest blood and nerve remedy, all pain soon left him. He says this grand medicine is what his country needs. All America knows that it cures liver and kidney trouble, purifies the blood, tones up the stomach, strengthens the nerves, puts vim, vigor and new life into every muscle, nerve and organ of the body. Hon. A. E. Cheney will deliver the Assembly address at the University this morning at 11:30 in the gymnasium. His subject will be "An International Episode."

It is now illegal to fish for trout in Nevada. Local anglers report that the speckled beauties are biting a good deal more greedily since the law went in.

VISIT TO THE RATTLESNAKE MINE

Huge Dyke of Low Grade Ore a Few Miles East of This City.

Yesterday a JOURNAL reporter drove out to the Rattlesnake mine eight miles east of this city. Superintendent Mills and a large force of men are engaged putting in track and cleaning out the face of the drift.

The formation on which the Rattlesnake and its five extensions are located is difficult to describe. It would hardly do to call it a ledge, it being more in the nature of a huge lode consisting of porphyry, quartz and quartzite, impregnated with iron and lime.

The dyke is at least 850 feet wide and rests upon a syenitic country rock. The formation dips to the east about 15 degrees. Its strike is nearly north and south. Through its entire breadth the cropping is said to carry values. The highest returns were $10.59. A number of assays ran from $2 to $5.

From a cursory examination the writer is led to believe that the Rattlesnake may turn out to be a big bonanza. If a mill run yields $2.50 a ton the owners may be congratulated, for it is a quarrying proposition and, in the event of cheap power being generated at the mouth of the canon, it will be a fine dividend paye.

This ledge has been known for many years. As long ago as 1865 some prospectors drove a 300 foot tunnel in on the lode but found it too low grade to pay under existing methods of working.

The owners of the Snake group, consisting of the Rattlesnake, Garter, Adder, Blacksnake, Gynote and Copperhead are Captain Mills, Lester H. Williams, W. G. Caffrey, Geo. D. Burton, Col. Root and Richard Brown.

Property Owners Meet.

A meeting of citizens owning property on the south bank of the Truckee was held yesterday morning at the Riverside Hotel. It was the consensus of opinion that the proposed embankment be constructed immediately.

W. O. H. Martin, Senator Western field and Chas. Knox were requested to see all property owners along the line of the proposed embankment with a view to securing their co-operation.

Famous Old Gamblers.

In the latest history of gambling in England, just published, there are some astonishing revelations as to the amount of money won and lost by men and women whose names are as familiar as household words early in the present century. There are records of $200,000 having been lost at a sitting, and the loss of $50,000 appears to have been a very common occurrence.

A gambling story is told of Charles James Fox that rather reflects on his honor. He was one of the ardent admirers of Mrs. Crewe, a noted beauty of her day, and it is related that a gentleman lost a considerable sum to this lady at play, and, being obliged to leave town suddenly, gave Mr. Fox the money to pay her, begging him to apologize to her for his not having paid the debt of honor in person. Fox lost every shilling of it before morning. Mrs. Crewe often met the supposed debtor afterward, and, surprised that he never noticed the circumstances, at length delicately hinted the matter to him.

"Bless me!" said he "I paid the money to Mr. Fox three months ago."

"Oh, did you, sir?" said Mrs. Crewe good naturedly. "Then, probably, he paid me, and I forgot it!"—Boston Her-

Dramatic Climax to His Introduction to Chewing Tobacco.

"A long time ago, when I was a mite of a boy," said Edison, "I, with two other little fellows, had saved up a lot of scrap iron and tin and zinc which we meant to sell when the holidays came around. There was a large boy in the neighborhood (I think he must have become a bunko steerer afterward) who knew of our hoard. One day when we had been in swimming he came to us and said:

"Say, you fellows, if you will give me that tin and iron and stuff you have, I'll teach you how to chew."

"The proposition struck us as being very fair, particularly as he agreed to furnish the tobacco. Well, we were quite willing, so he brought some Canadian cut down to a sand bank by the river. He divided the stuff into three parts and gave us each one. Then he said:

"Now you must do exactly as I say, and you must do it right away, or you'll never learn to chew."

"Now, then," he shouted, "hold up!"

"We held it up."

"Put it in your mouth!" he yelled.

"We put it in."

"Chew!" he hissed dramatically.

"We worked away at a great rate."

"Swallow it!" he screamed.

"We gulped it down, and then that young rascal fairly rolled down the bank with laughter, while we soon rolled down the other side, sicker, I suppose, than any of us had been in our lives before or since. One of the boys nearly died, and they had a very serious time with him. That was my first experience with tobacco."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

THE RIGHT OF DISCUSSION.

As the time for Congress to convene approaches the Philippine question is taking form. The Democrats are arranging themselves, as many suppose, in opposition to the United States retaining the Philippines in any form. The Republicans have no declared policy, and appear to be waiting for something to turn up that will be favorable to the party in the next campaign.

The Democrats have about concluded that the Republican party will be in favor of retaining the Philippines in some form that will be obnoxious to the Declaration of Independence, and, having so concluded, they are drawing upon the declaration of American rights to inspire opposition to the presumed policy of the Republican party.

The question of retention by the United States of the islands is open for discussion by all men and by both parties, in any way that they may deem proper to discuss the questions involved in the main question, without doing violence in any particular to party, as the matter is now before the country. Whatever is said is nothing more than an opinion of an individual citizen. The JOURNAL has declared its opinion in a few particulars on the question of expansion, and will continue to do so, in obedience to the principle that an opinion declared may be worth something, while an opinion not declared is not worth anything. We fully appreciate that opinions expressed on questions about which people differ are not always well received by those whose views may be in conflict with the opinions declared.

While the question is open we will exercise the right of an American citizen and the right of a Democrat to discuss the questions included in the controversy that is beginning to take shape on the Democratic side, until some authoritative policy is declared by the Democratic party. We concede the right of all persons to oppose our opinions; no right is claimed by us that is not fully and freely extended to others. By exercising the right of discussion of an open question that is subject to discussion, the JOURNAL has without a doubt placed itself in conflict with the opinions of Democrats who are honest and earnest in their convictions on the subject of expansion, whose opinions have been largely influenced by that love of country which will ever distinguish a patriot.

The JOURNAL, in the discussion of the question including expansion, has taken an affirmative view of the question from a war position, and by taking that view it is not in opposition to the more advanced view taken by men prominent in the councils of the Democratic party. There is no settled policy upon the question, and there are no lines marking the future action of the party that are at this time binding upon a Democrat in a party sense. Democrats have been and are engaged in forming opinions upon the question. These opinions when formed will be in the future declared in the form of a plank in the national platform of the party, and so far as it is learned, the united opinion will be declared to favor a prosecution of the war to a successful conclusion.

The party will be committed to self government by the people of the islands and to a maintenance of the sovereign authority of the United States over the islands until a government in all of its parts is in full operation in a stable form; and respecting the matter of picking up our duds and getting out of the country when the United States is satisfied that all things are right and as they should be, there does not seem to be any well defined opinion, and there will not be until Uncle Sam has concluded to stay away from home, for a time at least, to watch over the good work at the Philippines.

The JOURNAL is in full accord with all that seems, at this writing, will be the policy of the party. The United States has no right to be in the Philippines making war unless we are there through the right of sovereignty. If we are not occupying the country because of our sovereign right to do so, we are there to conquer, and if we are there for that purpose, the JOURNAL will say now and for ever, hands off. The United States of America cannot afford to be in that position.

One of the chief questions to be disposed of will arise upon the relation the United States should assume to the islands, consistent with our theory of government and our innate sense of liberty. We take a business view of

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Makes the food more delicious and wholesome

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

the whole matter that will have to be disposed of, which is the only practical view that can be taken of the situation. The United States will have to dispose of the Philippine matter in a way that will be for the best interests of all concerned, keeping ever while so doing under keen vision, written in large letters, the right of man to liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

There are people who entertain a feeling that something English will get into the business that will spoil it for American use, which is imaginary. Uncle Sam has the matter in hand and always has been able to attend to the English part of any business we have had with England; and do not think for a moment he has lost his cunning in business matters by going to the Philippines.

A coming attraction is Hoyt's best and brightest comedy "A Milk White Flag." The ideas embodied in this merry skit are worth thinking about. It is not a mere hodge podge of non-

VISIT TO THE RATTLESNAKE MINE

Huge Dyke of Low Grade Ore a Few Miles East of This City.

Yesterday a JOURNAL reporter drove out to the Rattlesnake mine eight miles east of this city.

Superintendent Mills and a large force of men are engaged putting in track and cleaning out the face of the drift.

The formation on which the Rattlesnake and its five extensions are located is difficult to describe. It would hardly do to call it a ledge, it being more in the nature of a huge lode consisting of porphyry, quartz and quartzite, impregnated with iron and lime.

The dyke is at least 350 feet wide and rests upon a syenitic country rock. The formation dips to the east about 15 degrees. Its strike is nearly north and south. Through its entire breadth the cropping is said to carry values. The highest returns were $10.59. A number of assays ran from $2 to $5.

From a cursory examination the writer is led to believe that the Rattlesnake may turn out to be a big bonanza. If a mill run yields $2.50 a ton the owners may be congratulated, for it is a quarrying proposition and, in the event of cheap power being generated at the mouth of the canon, it will be a fine dividend pay.

NEWLANDS DECLINES To Sign the "World" Petition to the President.

TELEGRAM FROM "THE WORLD."
FRANCIS G. NEWLANDS,
Reno, Nevada—

THE "World" is sending to a number of conspicuous American citizens the following petition with a request for permission to use their names as signers:

WILLIAM MCKINLEY,
President of the United States—
The undersigned representatives of American public and private life most respectfully petition you to offer the friendly service of the United States in mediation between Great Britain and the Republics of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State. Articles I, II and III of the plan adopted by the Peace Congress makes such offers the right of any friendly power "even during the course of hostilities."

We respectfully submit that it is not only the right and duty of this nation but also its high privilege to strive to prevent the wiping out of two of our sister republics, the desolation of thousands of English and South African homes; the slaughter of thousands of civilized men and the drenching of South Africa with blood and tears.

The "World" asks you to join in this petition. If you will do so please telegraph at the "World's" expense permission to use your name that the petition may be forwarded at the earliest possible moment.

THE WORLD,
New York, N. Y.

Although in sympathy with the humanitarian purpose of your telegram I decline to join in such a petition. Until our Government gives an assurance to the Filipinos similar to that given to the Cubans, viz: that our purpose is to restore order and ultimately to establish a stable government founded on the consent of the governed, our moral position is not such as to warrant us in calling a sister power to task for aggression. Adherence to our own traditions will alone save us from the abundant hypocrisy of proffering the mediation suggested.

FRANCIS G. NEWLANDS.

INTERVIEW WITH MR. NEWLANDS.
In explanation of his telegram Mr. Newlands said to a JOURNAL reporter that the War Resolutions passed by Congress just before the Cuban war was inaugurated, declared that our purpose was not conquest, but simply the organization of a stable government in Cuba, based upon the consent of the governed; that this declaration ought to have been applied to the Philippines and, had it been, war with the Filipinos would probably have been averted; that good faith required that this declaration should yet be made; that such a declaration would not involve the immediate withdrawal of our troops; that our duty was to restore order and establish a stable government, however long that might take, but that assurance should be given of our ultimate purpose of giving the Filipinos self government—that commercial expansion would then be secured without territorial expansion and all the benefits of increased trade would be gained without the abandonment of our theory of government and the high ideals, which thus far had animated our international action and made our country a power in the advancement of free government throughout the world.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC
SNOW SHEDS BURN
Loss Is Heavy—Through Traffic
Will not Be Resumed for Several Days.

Nearly two miles of snow-sheds between Elko and Emigrant Gap have been destroyed by fire. The ties for this distance are ruined and the rails twisted. An iron bridge midway on this stretch of track was so badly warped and sprung that it will need considerable repairs. The loss to the company is estimated at $80,000.

A railroad official said to the JOURNAL representative: "The fire was undoubtedly of incendiary origin. Before it was discovered it had made such headway that nothing could be done to save either end of the section. The company has an automatic fire alarm wire running through the sheds. Evidently this wire was cut by the fire bugs. There will be a delay of a day or two getting the road in shape for traffic. The nature of the country where the fire occurred is such that there will be great difficulty transferring mail and passengers."

A Night of Terror.
"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she could not live till morning," writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night. "All thought that she must soon die from pneumonia, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, saying it had more than once saved her life, and had cured her of consumption. After three small doses she slept easily all night, and its further use completely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all throat, chest and lung diseases. Only 50 cents and $1. Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

The New Trains.
A schedule has been arranged for the new trains to be put on over the Central Pacific about October 15th. No. 5 will leave San Francisco at 8 p. m. and arrive at Ogden at 5:45 a. m. It will pass through Reno about two hours ahead of No. 3. Train 6 will leave Ogden at 1:10 p. m. and arrive in San Francisco at 8:45 p. m. This train will pass through Reno about 10 in the morning.

An Appeal Taken.
In the case of W. R. Cool vs. G. Perkins et al. an appeal has been taken to the District Court, as some of the parties concerned do not appear to be satisfied with the decision of the court below.

The Hnemen of the Sunset Telegraph and Telephone Company expect to string their wires to Reno by the last of next month.
